Summer Wrap Up Edition

It seems like we were just getting ready to open the doors for another summer at Lions Bear Lake Camp, and somehow we are already looking back on more than 11 weeks of camp. The weeks went fast, but they were packed. Campers and families came through our gates, new groups experienced Bear Lake for the first time, familiar faces returned, and there was rarely a quiet moment anywhere on campus. That is exactly why we wanted to put together this Special Summer Wrap Up Edition of our newsletter. There really is no single number that can sum up a summer like this. The story is in everything that happened while everyone was here. It is the camper who tried something for the first time and realized they could do it. It is the child who showed up on Sunday not knowing anyone and left on Friday with people they did not want to say goodbye to. It is families getting to experience camp together. It is laughter coming from the cabins, music carrying across campus, kids heading toward the lake, and groups sitting around tables talking about everything that happened that day. Behind all of those moments were a lot of people working very long days to make them possible. Our staff spent countless hours preparing for groups, running programs, cooking meals, maintaining our grounds and facilities, keeping campers safe, and taking care of hundreds of little things that most people will never see. Our volunteers, Lions, Leos, donors, community supporters, and partner organizations continued to show up when we needed them. A summer this busy simply does not happen without people willing to put in the work. This summer also showed just how much Bear Lake continues to grow. Our campus stayed busy week after week, sometimes with barely enough time to catch our breath before one group headed home and another started arriving. We welcomed new programs while continuing the camps and traditions that have been part of Bear Lake for years. Our calendar was filled with youth camps, family programs, music programs, leadership experiences, and partner organizations from across Michigan. There were long days and tired faces. There were definitely moments when someone had to stop and figure out what day of the week it actually was. But mixed into all of that were the moments that made the long hours worth it. Sometimes they were big moments. Sometimes it was simply watching a camper arrive nervous and unsure on Sunday, then seeing that same kid running around camp by Friday like they had been coming here their entire life.

Those are the stories we wanted this edition to tell.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR NOTE TRACI POHODA

There is something about fall at Bear Lake that makes you stop and look around. After 11 full weeks of summer camp and more than 1,300 kids coming through our gates, the quiet feels a little strange at first. The mornings are cooler, the leaves are starting to turn and the property has a completely different feel. Summer was busy, loud and exhausting at times, but it was also filled with kids laughing across camp, trying new things and making this place their own. I am proud of our staff for everything they gave this summer and thankful for the Lions, volunteers, donors and families who continue to make all of this possible.

Summer camp may be finished, but Bear Lake certainly is not. Fall brings retreat season, and I love seeing camp take on a new life this time of year. Different groups begin arriving, the cabins fill back up and the changing colors around the lake make it hard not to appreciate just how special this property really is. After spending the summer watching kids enjoy Bear Lake, we now get to share it with everyone who comes through our doors this fall. It is a different pace and a different kind of busy, but one I look forward to every year.

This fall started with a pretty big change for me personally too. Once our summer camp season officially came to an end, Mike and I got married! It seems fitting that while Bear Lake was moving from one season into another, I was doing the same in my own life. It has been quite a year already, and there is still plenty ahead of us. For now, I am ready for crisp mornings, colorful trees, busy retreat weekends and everything that comes with fall at Bear Lake. And this year, I get to enjoy it as a newlywed too.

CAMP UPDATES: SUMMER RECAP

A Summer to Remember at Lions Bear Lake Camp

What a summer it has been at Lions Bear Lake Camp! This year brought more than 11 weeks of summer camps, programs, and activities to our campus, making it one of our busiest and most diverse summers yet. So far in 2026, we have welcomed over 1,300 children through our gates. This summer also marked an exciting first for Bear Lake Camp with the introduction of our Visually Impaired and Blind Family Camp. Families were able to experience Bear Lake together and enjoy a weekend built around connection, recreation, and the same opportunities that make our youth programs so special.

We continued our traditional Visually Impaired and Blind Youth Camp and Deaf and Hard of Hearing Youth Camp, along with our Deaf and Hard of Hearing Family Camp. These programs remain at the heart of why Bear Lake Camp exists and give children and families opportunities to build confidence, try new things, make friendships, and simply enjoy being at camp.

Our Deaf and Hard of Hearing Youth Camp brought challenges this year that none of us could have expected. The week began during scorching summer heat, requiring our staff to make adjustments throughout the day to keep campers safe while still giving them as much of the camp experience as possible. At the same time, concerns surrounding the Cyclospora outbreak meant we had to pull our salad bar and make additional changes in our kitchen. We handled each challenge as it came and kept moving forward. Then smoke from the Canadian wildfires moved into Michigan, bringing air quality levels that became a serious health concern. We watched the conditions closely and hoped they would improve, but eventually we were faced with a decision we never wanted to make. Halfway through the week, we had to close camp and send our campers home early.

That one hurt.

These kids look forward to their week at Bear Lake, and our staff looks forward to having them here. After dealing with the heat and making changes because of the outbreak, we wanted more than anything to finish their week. Unfortunately, the air quality left us with a situation we could not safely work around. Saying goodbye several days too soon was heartbreaking for our campers and our staff. It was a difficult ending to a week that had already asked a lot from everyone, but the health and safety of our campers had to come before everything else.

But that was only one part of a very full summer.

We welcomed Camp Kesem through Michigan State University for two full weeks, along with Providing a Better Journey Foster Kid Camp. Two cross country teams spent time on campus, and MASTA String Orchestra Association returned for three separate sessions. Our summer also included Sterling Heights Band Camp, Jack and Jill Leadership Development Program, Leader Dog Summer Experience, Michigan All State Band, Children's Ministry Camp, and our annual Open House.

From musicians and athletes to leadership groups, foster youth, families, and campers with visual or hearing impairments, there was rarely a quiet week on campus.

It was a jam packed summer, and over 1,300 kids have already been part of Bear Lake Camp this year. Behind that number are hundreds of first experiences, new friendships, challenges overcome, and memories made. There were also moments this summer that reminded us that no matter how much planning goes into camp, sometimes circumstances change in ways no one can control. What matters in those moments is how we respond and making sure the people trusted to our care always come first.

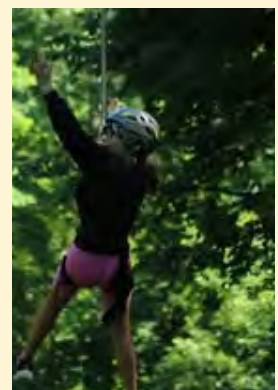

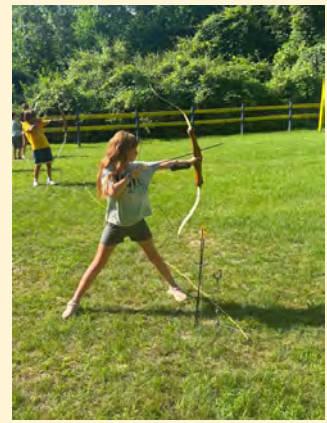

None of this happens without the people who continue to believe in Lions Bear Lake Camp. Our Lions and Leos, donors, volunteers, staff, partner organizations, and supporters make it possible for us to continue opening our doors to more children and families each year.

More than 11 weeks of summer programming is a lot to fit into a few short months. This summer gave us plenty to celebrate, a few things we never could have planned for, and at least one goodbye that came much earlier than any of us wanted. Through all of it, the reason we do this remained the same: the kids who come through our gates and the chance to give them a place where they can simply be kids.
